Gentlemen:

Responding to your telephone message of yesterday, you will see by our bill of the 24th that $2.00 (the price of Mathematic Notes and Monographs, No. 11) was deducted from the amount quoted to you, $5.00, in our letter of September 23th, the last copy of No. 11 having been sold before your order was received.

To note that Volume XVII of the American Journal of Mathematics and No. 1 of Volume XVII are missing and we are sending them to you under separate cover. The report No. 170 missing, but this is due to an error in numbering: you will see that No. 176 and 177 are consecutive. Of Volume XVII only three parts were issued and these were sent you. Will you kindly return No. 1 of Volume XVII, which was sent you in error.

Gentlemen:

Your letter of October 26th informed us that you were that day writing to your German customer to ascertain whether the incomplete set of Holographic Plates and Monographs sent you on October 23d, with Nos. 2, 3, 5, and 11 missing and out of print, would be satisfactory to him. We should be very glad to hear from you, and if your customer does not care to take the incomplete set, to learn whether you care to retain these monographs or desire to return them to us.

Very truly yours,

Secretary
